

Controls Largest Group of Tent Shows in World

Ringling, Last of Five Brothers Adds Five Shows to the Ringling Group.

New York, Sept. 10 (AP).—John Ringling, who started as a singing clown, rules as supreme ringmaster of the circus world today.

By purchase of five of his former competitors, the last of the famous Ringling Brothers has acquired control of the largest group of tent shows in the world, including their talent menageries, equipment and winter quarters.

The shows which have been added to the Ringling group are: Sells Bros., Hagenbeck-Wallace Animal Show, Sparks, John Robinson's and Al G. Barnes Wild Animal Show. The properties were purchased from the American Circus Corporation in a transaction which friends of the showman said, involved several million dollars.

About 5,000 persons are employed in the newly acquired shows as compared with 1,600 in the present Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey organization.

The announcement of the purchase said the five shows would be operated as individual units although there might be some interchange of talent.

John Ringling launched into the show business in the early seventies in Baraboo, Wis., with his four brothers, Charles, Al, Otto and Alf. T. With a capital of five dollars they offered their first performance in their home village. They spent $3.70 of the $5 to print hand bills announcing a one-night stand of "Ringling Brothers" moral, elevating, instructive and fascinating concert and variety performance. The show played to an audience of 47 in the Opera House.

Two years later they had a one-tent show.

GRAND JURY INVESTIGATES WITNESS TAMPERING CASE

Los Angeles, Sept. 10 (AP).—Charged with tampering with state witnesses in the Alexander Panagiotis case, two young women of Hollywood were ordered to appear before the county grand jury today, while a third woman, her name withheld, was under surveillance pending a probe of her activities in an alleged $25,000 bribe offer.

The two girls, Nancy Lee and Janice Hill, half sisters, were arrested after Nick Dunbar, a witness at Panagiotis' preliminary hearing, brought to the district attorney's office a note saying $25,000 would be given him if he would testify against the state. The handwriting of the note was declared identical with that of Miss Lee's.

Yesterday Miss Lee and Miss Hill were declared by District Attorney Buron Fitts to have said the unidentified woman had induced them to move to the apartment occupied by state witnesses.

ASKED JUDGE KENYON TO "SIT DOWN OR LEAVE"

Washington, Sept. 10 (AP).—Judge William S. Kenyon, a member of President Hoover's Law Enforcement Commission, was unrecognized by court attaches as he made a recent personal survey of trial procedure in the police courts of Washington. One attaché suggested before learning Judge Kenyon's identity, that the visitor "sit down or leave."

After watching the speed with which the cases were disposed of, Judge Kenyon ventured the opinion that "justice might be thwarted by too much haste, as well as too much procrastination."

Don't Take Much in Chicago.

Chicago, Sept. 10 (AP).—A person can get stabbed for the silliest things in this town, said Charles McLean with a knife wound in his left arm. McLean was leaning over a Lincoln Park drinking fountain last night quenching his thirst. A man stood behind him and told him to hurry. McLean lifted his head to reply and the man stabbed him. The wound proved slight. The stabber escaped.

Had Fire Situation in Oregon.

Hold Up Tariff or Settle Vare Case

Senator Norris's Resolution Leaves a Dilemma in Settling the Three Year Old Controversy.

Washington, Sept. 10 (AP).—Haunted by the three-year-old controversy over William S. Vare's right to a Senate seat, Republican leaders of the Senate today were considering a quick settlement of the Pennsylvania election case.

The Republicans, first, want to get down to work on their tariff measure, and second, they hope to fill the long-vacant Vare seat with a Republican vote, which is sorely needed in the impending tariff struggle.

Senator Norris of Nebraska, a Republican independent who is opposing the tariff measure, confounded the administration party leaders yesterday by introducing the resolution to deny Vare his seat. The resolution came before the Senate just as Norris reminded the Senate that his resolution commanded precedence over any other legislation.

The Nebraska will call it up within a day or two, yielding to delay only on urgent request. Mr. Vare's spokesman in the Senate is Senator Reed, Republican, of Pennsylvania. Senator Reed is one of the framers of the tariff bill and among those most anxious for its adoption. He has the choice of an early vote on the Vare case or delay in the tariff debate.

Senator Reed is concerned over the health of Mr. Vare, whom he does not believe is in a condition to take advantage of the Senate's offer to him to defend himself personally. He will argue for another postponement of the case, but he does not want the Norris resolution used as a vehicle for a filibuster against the tariff.

There is some controversy as to whether the governor of Pennsylvania could make an appointment in the event the Senate denies Vare his seat as a contest by William B. Wilson, the Democratic candidate in the 1926 Pennsylvania senatorial election, is still pending.

The Norris resolution would deny Vare his seat on the report of the special-Senate committee which investigated his primary campaign of 1926 and reported that his ticket spent $785,000 in the three-cornered Republican senatorial race.

Because of Wilson's contest, Republican leaders are wondering if the Vare seat can be filled regardless of the vote on the Norris resolution. Therefore, they are considering bringing this, too, to an early decision. They hope to get a much-needed Republican vote out of the row over Vare's seat since the controversy must be settled before the tariff struggle really gets under way.

Isaac Williams Gets Out of Jail

Isaac Williams, who was sentenced to serve eight months in the county jail last February, when he entered a plea of guilty to burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry at New Paltz, made application through his attorney, Frank W. Brooks, for a modification of sentence. Since he has been confined in the Ulster county jail he has been a model prisoner. Probation Officer Service investigated his case and recommended that the court suspend the remainder of the sentence and give Williams an opportunity to make good. On the request of Mr. Service the court released Williams, who will report to Mr. Service.

There is a second indictment against Williams for robbery, second degree. This will be held pending the future conduct of defendant. District Attorney Traver did not oppose the modification of sentence.

Badly Beaten By Anti-Communists

Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 10 (AP).—Exhibiting marks on their bodies as proof that they had been spirited away last night from Gastonia and beaten by an anti-Communist mob, three men returned to Charlotte this morning.

The men, Ben Wells, textile union organizer, C. M. Lell and C. D. Saylor, Gastonia strikers, said they had been taken to a lonely spot in Cabarrus county, eight miles from Concord, N. C., where they had been lashed and then left to find their way back.

They were seized, they said, by the mob which formed in Gastonia yesterday after the trial of the labor leaders and strikers, charged with the murder of Police Chief O. F. Aderholt, had been declared a mistrial when a juror became insane.

The mob not only made a demonstration in Gastonia but also visited Charlotte and Bessemer City, milling around the apartment house occupied by Tom P. Jimison, defense attorney, in Charlotte.

According to the story told by the three men, they were carried to the lonely spot, approximately 30 miles from Charlotte and while they were being beaten, a group of opossum hunters passed nearby, frightening the mob. The mob immediately dispersed, leaving the men. Wells said he was unconscious for an hour.

The three walked to Concord, where they notified police. They then caught a train for Charlotte. Saylor said he could identify part of the mob.

Zucca Seeks for Talent for Kapers

With the Kiwanis Kapers scheduled for its third annual appearance at the Broadway Theatre on September 27 and 28, there is much activity in Kiwanis circles. Paul Zucca, who is chairman of the talent committee, has searched the four corners of the earth for new talent and has been very successful in his efforts but he feels that there is still some good talent which he has missed. Those who took part in the Kapers in the past were easy enough to locate but there are others in Kingston and vicinity who can do something which would make the Kapers this year even better than in the past, and it is those people whom Mr. Zucca would like to locate. Anyone who can sing, dance or entertain should get in communication with Mr. Zucca.

Charles Adams, who will have the entertainment in charge, will be in town and commence rehearsals at the Masonic Club, Broadway and Henry street, on September 16.

If there is anyone who would like to have a place on the Kiwanis Kapers program, arrangements may be made by communicating with Mr. Zucca. Anyone who took part in the entertainment during the past two years and who has not been in communication with Mr. Zucca is also requested to see him immediately.

ACCUSE TEACHER OF BEING PRODUCT OF FLAPPER AGE

Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 10 (AP).—Miss Mildred Doyle, 23 and pretty, who is accused by parents of her pupils of being a product of "a young, reckless, thoughtless, don't care flapper age, thinking of everything but the serious side of life," performed her duties as principal of a country high school near here without show of concern today while awaiting a hearing of the charges before the Knox County Board of Education.

The accusations, filed by several members of her school's Parent-Teachers Association, were answered by Miss Doyle by a statement in which she declared the mention of the "flapper age" was a "general indictment of the younger generation."

She said the charges were vague and asked that they be dismissed. The Knox County Board of Education meets tomorrow.

EIGHT VOLUNTEER FIREMEN CHARGED WITH ARSON

Glen Cove, N. Y., Sept. 10 (AP).—Eight volunteer members of the fire department of Glen Cove today were charged with second and third degree arson in connection with a series of mysterious fires in the vicinity going back to 1924. Through the aid of the hospital occupational department much of her work has been sold. She was admitted to the hospital 15 years ago with arthritis deformans.

To Hold Inquest In Auto Accident.

Improvement in the condition of Jan deLaet of Brooklyn, who was severely injured in an automobile accident Saturday night, which cost the lives of his wife and son, was reported early this morning. Mr. deLaet had a relapse yesterday afternoon, but survived so that now hopes are held for his recovery, according to reports from St. Francis Hospital, Poughkeepsie, where the injured man was taken.

The accident, which occurred between a Coast-to-Coast bus, operated by the Colonial Bus Company, and the deLaet machine, a Hudson sedan, will be investigated; the driver of the bus, Henry F. Duffy of Albany, was released from custody after $500 bond had been furnished, will be held to await the result of the inquest Friday morning at Highland before Coroner W. N. Conner.

Investigation of the death of Mrs. deLaet will be conducted by Coroner Conner, and that of the child, Jan, Jr., who died at Poughkeepsie, will be made by Coroner John A. Card of Dutchess county. It was first thought that the child had suffered a fractured skull, but later examination proved that his head had been badly cut, there being no fracture.

William Dougherty, brother-in-law of Mr. deLaet, who was the fourth occupant of the deLaet car, was not seriously injured, and it is expected that he will be discharged from St. Francis Hospital within a few days. Other victims of the crash are reported to be recovering, most of them having been discharged from medical care. Thomas Anderson of Jamaica, L. I., who is about 70 years old, may require some time to recover from the effects of his wounds. He suffered several fractured ribs.

Mr. Duffy, the bus driver, was arrested on a charge of assault in the second degree. Bond was furnished him by Frank DuBois of Highland, a representative of the bus company. There is a possibility that when the inquest is held a charge of manslaughter may be lodged against the driver. At the time of his arrest it was not known that Mrs. deLaet and her son had been killed.

MISS TRUMBULL DOES NOT FAVOR PUBLICITY.

Plainville, Conn., Sept. 10 (AP).—The round of pre-nuptial social activity has begun for Miss Florence Trumbull, who is to become the bride on September 23 of Major John Coolidge. The first of a series of minor society events was held last night.

It was a kitchen shower. Thirty-two young women attended, bringing the usual gifts. They spent the evening at auction bridge.

Miss Trumbull declined to say who was present. She also refused to discuss any other events which may be scheduled and indicated her intention to continue to adhere to her policy of keeping news of her affairs from reaching the public prematurely.

It is understood here that she and her mother were perturbed because the wedding date had been announced by friends while the Trumbulls were at Moosehead Lake, Maine.

Preparations have been made also for students who were in attendance, last term. The school office will open at 6:30.

Those $1.50 tires are of course, worth $5.10 asked. Through a typographical error in the Rose & Gorman tire advertisement in the newspapers the price of the 30x3 1/2 clincher giant cord tire was given at $1.50, instead of $5.10. The error was so obvious that any person of average intelligence would know it to be an error.

Open Hostilities In Manchuria.

London, Sept. 10 (AP).—Although there have been no formal declarations of war, Russian and Chinese dispatches today indicated an apparent state of open hostility at points on the Manchurian border, northeastern Asia.

The dispatches told of serious fighting which has been in progress, intermittently since Thursday of last week and which assumed some magnitude Sunday and Monday both at Manchuli and Pochranichmaya, the western and eastern termini of the Chinese Eastern Railway.

Reports indicated heavy loss in life and property as a result of air raids, bombings and fierce artillery fire. A Chinese report that the fighting extending over the entire Manchurian border was taken to mean that clashes occurred between garrisons at other points along the 2,000-mile frontier.

There was a tendency in some quarters to regard the fighting as the heralded Russian offensive under General Blucher, new head of the Soviet Far-eastern Army. Chinese soldiers, Chinese dispatches indicated, opposed Russian movements vigorously. The Chinese were said to have recaptured Pochranichmaya after losing it earlier to the Soviet troops. The frontier city suffered heavily by fire and bombardment.

The Soviet government through the German Ambassador protested both to the Nanking and Mukden governments against what were described as unwarranted attacks on Soviet territory by Chinese and Russian white guards. The Soviet note warned the Chinese that continuance of such attacks was likely to incur the gravest consequences.

For Compulsory Arbitration

Geneva, Switzerland, Sept. 10 (AP).—The idea of compulsory arbitration of international disputes is making big strides at the tenth assembly sessions of the League of Nations. Interest of statesmen at Geneva is again concentrating on the immense possibilities of the permanent court of international justice for the consolidation of world peace and as effective machinery for preventing war.

Now there is a general expectation that the United States will accede to the world court. The question being asked is whether the Washington government will not take even a further step and sign the optional clause recognizing the compulsory jurisdiction of the court. This clause bestows the right upon one party to a dispute to summon another before the court.

Within the past twenty-four hours at Geneva both Italy and Czechoslovakia have accepted compulsory arbitration for the settlement of juridical difficulties.

Great Britain has announced she will sign the arbitration clause and France is about to make her previous signature unconditional. Peru recently got aboard this movement and today it became clear that Brazil also will accept its provisions.

VISITING FEDERAL JUDGES USE STERN MEASURES.

New York, Sept. 10 (AP).—Prohibition law violators in New York apparently are in for a period of stern treatment at the hands of visiting jurists.

With $500 fines becoming the rule, rather than the exception, in Brooklyn federal court where Judge Halstead L. Ritter of Colorado is presiding, a padlock campaign against speakeasies has been started by Judge Paul J. McCormick of California.

At the convening of padlock court yesterday after a lapse of several months, Judge McCormick ordered three Greenwich Village clubs padlocked and directed another speakeasy proprietor to post bonds to assure a compliance with the law in the future.

Seeks Agreement With Doukhobors.

Victoria, B. C., Sept. 10 (AP).—The provincial government today was seeking an agreement with the Doukhobors, a religious sect whose practices have brought them into frequent conflict with the authorities and citizens. The chief causes of complaint against members of the sect have been their refusal to send their children to public schools and the practice of holding processions in the nude.

Raise Sunken Brick Barge

After extensive salvage operations, in which two derrick lighters, two deck scows and the services of a submarine diver were used, the Kingston Dry Dock & Construction Company has succeeded in raising the brick scow "Margaret F. Dunn," which sank at the P. & M. dock at Glasgow with a full load of 350,000 bricks.

The barge sank at the dock in about 30 feet of water and the marine wrecking plant of the Kingston Dry Dock & Construction Company was engaged to recover the brick from the deck. The greater part of the load was recovered by means of the bucket dredge "Island Dock No. 10," after which preparations were made to raise the sunken scow. The depth of the water and other hazardous conditions necessitated careful planning and occasioned tedious and laborious effort.

Eugene Carl, local marine diving expert, first made a preliminary survey of the conditions under water and reported the position of the barge together with plans for placing cables under the ends of the boat. The deck scows were placed in position above and along each side of the sunken barge and on these barges the newly constructed derrick boats "Island Dock No. 10" and "L. E. Rogers" put heavy timbers to which extra strong cables were attached securely after being run under each end of the barge resting on the bottom. This work required considerable time as great care had to be exercised in making all fastenings extremely secure in order to hold them against weather conditions and the swells of the numerous passing large river boats.

Then by taking advantage of an exceptional low tide and by pumping three feet of water into the scows all the slack in the cables was taken up. When the tide raised and as the water was pumped from the scows the suction was broken slowly to the bottom and the barge rose toward the surface. It was then towed to a nearby beach where it was patched, pumped out, and then removed to the shipyard of the Kingston Dry Dock & Construction Company for extensive repairs.

This is the third marine salvaging job that the wrecker "Island Dock No. 10" has done this summer. In June the sunken sloop "Adelaide" was raised at Irvington, N. Y., and later the brick cargo of the barge "Van" was recovered at Kingston Point.

ONLY THE BEGINNING OF WAR AGAINST BUCKET SHOPS.

Chicago, Sept. 10 (AP).—True bills against 20 men and the forced resignation of an assistant state's attorney today marked "only the beginning" of the war against Chicago bucket shops. State Attorney Swanson said today.

Numerous raids may be expected immediately, the prosecutor stated, to drive out firms which have caused an estimated loss of half a million dollars to investors.

The true bills returned yesterday followed testimony before the grand jury of 12 persons who said they had been defrauded in stock purchases recommended by the brokerage firms.

City Of Future Is Seen With Dust Masking Sun

Dr. Arnold H. Kegel, Chicago health commissioner, showing amount of dust city dwellers breathe in a year. How much? Pound and a half.

Chicago (AP)—Sunless cities with clouds of air dust blotting out Old Sol's efforts to give health to the urbanite are future possibilities, thinks Dr. Arnold H. Kegel, city health commissioner.

Filtering the air of Chicago is one of the tasks undertaken by the youthful commissioner, who became that because he was Mayor Thompson's personal physician.

He wages his war largely with statistics, although occasionally a factory owner whose chimneys have belched out too much soot is hauled to court to mend his ways.

A pound and a half of dust a year is inhaled by the Chicagoan, Dr. Kegel claims, and there are folks of four other cities, all smaller than Chicago, who inhale more than that. His survey showed that St. Louis is first, 1.85 pounds; Cincinnati, second, 1.75 pounds; Pittsburgh, 1.69 pounds, and Detroit, 1.61 pounds.

Each year fewer of the sun's rays penetrate the city dust, so Kegel quotes the United States weather bureau. And as the rays decrease the deaths increase.

The commissioner has a remedy—clean up the cities.

ELECTRONS ALTER FRUIT FLY SHAPE.

St. Louis (AP)—The invisible force in X-rays that changes fruit flies is identified as high speed negatively charged electrons by Dr. Frank Blair Hanson of Washington University.

Subjecting the eggs of these flies to X-rays results in young with shapes and other characteristics different from those of their parents. In a report to the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Dr. Hanson says that in measuring the quantity of rays he found that the number of changes corresponds to the number of electrons.

BORDER INSPECTOR SHOT TWICE, STABBED 15 TIMES

Presidio, Texas, Sept. 10 (AP)—Overwhelmed by a gang of outlaws, presumably aliens seeking illegal entry into the United States, Miles J. Scannell, assistant chief inspector of the border patrol, was shot and stabbed to death at a lonely spot on the Rio Grande, 15 miles east of here, yesterday.

Fellow officers, who viewed the spot where a terrific struggle apparently had taken place, believed that Scannell was overpowered after he had waded the river and captured one of the aliens. He had been shot twice and stabbed 15 times, including one slash across his throat. The officer's handcuffs and revolver could not be found.

His attackers apparently had fled into the wilderness across the Rio Grande, as immigration officers of the border control could find no trace of them on the American side. Scannell was stationed at Marfa.

Studebaker President Eight sets New Stock Car Record in 1929 Pikes Peak Climb!

—Adds famous Penrose Trophy to 11 world and 23 international records

A strictly stock, fully equipped Studebaker President Eight, driven by Glen Shultz, set the fastest stock car time in history to win the most arduous hill climbing contest known to motoring—the Annual Penrose Trophy Race to the summit of Pikes Peak, 14,109 feet above sea level! Another triumph for Studebaker, holder of more official stock car records for speed and endurance than all other American cars combined!

The Pikes Peak Climb was sanctioned, timed and checked by the American Automobile Association, as was the President's famous run of 30,000 miles in 26,326 consecutive minutes.*

Studebaker's President Eight covered the 12 miles and 2200 feet to the summit of Pikes Peak—9150 feet to 14,109 feet above sea level—in 21 minutes, 43.4 seconds. Average speed was 34.3 miles per hour. 154 curves make this course a supreme test of motor car balance and handling ease.

You can buy a duplicate of the Pikes Peak President from any Studebaker dealer. See it—drive it—own a Studebaker champion eight at a new, low One-Price! And remember your car will be worth more a year from now—if it is an eight!

*High compression head (6 1/2 in. x 5 in.) and maximum gear ratio (4.08 to 1) were used—either of which is optional and available in any Studebaker purchaser's equipment.

New low prices now effective on more than 42 Studebaker models, $860 to $2350 at the factory

POLAR ISLAND IS FREE OF BACTERIA

No Germs of Any Nature
Could Be Found.

Berlin.—In the polar sea lies an island which has been found to be absolutely free of bacteria, according to a writer in the Review, a scientific and technical journal. The article tells of exhaustive tests made on the island, the name of which is Nowaja Semlja, by a representative of the Central Geophysical observatory of Leningrad.

Polar air has long been known to be exceedingly pure, but until the Leningrad institute undertook its expedition to Nowaja Semlja, the extent of its purity had never been exactly measured. Dr. Kusansky, who headed the party, spent an entire winter on the island and in that time was unable to discover a single bacterium.
Air, water, soil, dust, and even the flesh of wild animals which had been shot by hunters, were all tested and found to be germ-free, the writer asserts.

As a part of the experiments a certain gelatinous substance, upon which bacteria usually thrive, was left in the open air for several hours and then later heated in a brooding device, but not a single germ could be found.
When gelatine of this sort is left exposed to the air of the ordinary big city it becomes so thickly covered with bacteria colonies within 15 minutes that the bacteria can not be counted. Fresh meat was left in the open for eight months, being subjected to all kinds of weather, and at the end of this period there was not the slightest trace of putrefaction.

Wolf Terrorizes Little Belt Mountain Ranches

Stanford, Mont.—Swift as lightning, cunning as a fox, a bold killer, White Wolf has become the terror of the Little Belt mountains. Ranchers fear him, and, assisted by federal hunters, have constantly sought to remove this big white beast that decreases their herds. But the $700 bounty offered for White Wolf's hide remains unclaimed.
The killer wolf has been seen by many. Scores of shots have been fired at him. None has found its mark.

The wolf has ranged at will for several years, killing cattle, colts and sheep with the ease and skill of a much larger animal. He is the biggest wolf in the mountains and the only degenerate killer who has managed to elude his pursuers. Small animals are not his only prey. He kills full grown cattle with ease. The total loss in stock killed in the Little Belt by White Wolf is estimated to be $3,000.

Find Left-Handedness Inheritable Trait

is an inheritable characteristic and not merely a chance acquisition, according to Prof. Catherine Beers of the University of Southern California.

Zoology students working with Miss Beers have been studying left-handed-ness for two years and tracing its occurrence in families of the last three generations. Out of 1,399 individuals the students found that 12.3 per cent were left-handed. When the families of these 12.3 per cent were investigated, left-handedness was found to occur in about 25 per cent of the number.

There is a two-in-five chance that the children of left-handed parents will show this characteristic, the students found. In only about 7 per cent of the cases of left-handedness was the individual the only member of the family to have this characteristic.

HELP FOR CHILDREN.

President Hoover's interest in the children of this country, as just now expressed in his active concern for the "schooling" of a small group of them near his fishing camp in the Virginia hills, has reminded the New York Times of Emerson's prodding of his New England auditors on one occasion to the effect that "he did not want them to talk to him about their incredible tenderness for folk a thousand miles away (Southern negroes in particular), but to love the woodchoppers in their back yards." This illustration from the past is the more apt because the mountain children Mr. Hoover plans to help are found less than a hundred miles from the nation's center at Washington.

That such isolated groups of children are far more in need of modern advantages than the more fortunate children of the populous centers is obvious and is made convincing in detail by the following published statistical statement: The city can hold a nine months school each year while the average for the rural districts is seven months. There is 7.7 per cent illiteracy in the rural districts and 4.4 per cent in the city. The difference in health defects is startling: eye defects, rural 23 per cent, city 12 per cent; and defective teeth, rural 48 per cent, and city 33. Only 25.7 per cent of the rural children 15 to 18 years of age are in the high school as compared with 71.1 per cent in the city. It is equally obvious that isolated mountain groups of children are less well provided for than these average rural groups because the conditions make it impossible for their parents to do as well by them.

APPROACH TO THE NEW PARK.

Tennessee's plan for a fine broad roadway from Knoxville to the new Great Smokies National Park reveals intelligent foresight as well as commendable enterprise, the more so because the approach to the crest of the Great Smoky Mountains is steeper on the Tennessee than on the North Carolina side. There will be country-wide interest among automobile tourists in a fine roadway down both sides of what is to be the highest and greatest national park east of the Mississippi. The Tennessee plan calls for a 300-foot right of way, and for planting and landscaping so that the approach will fit pleasingly into the view as well as be easily traveled by motorists. Many Representatives in Congress as well as the Tennessee authorities are reported to be favorable to the project and it has been endorsed by the Southern Appalachian Conservation Association.

But the cost will be large and this is the chief difficulty, the only other of any importance being local objection to both the roadway and even to the park itself. Other states have long hesitated to pay for approaches and in the west there has often been local opposition to the existence of the parks themselves—an attitude later greatly modified by the profit in touring visitors. The Tennessee plan proposes that half of the expense be borne by the Federal government, 40 per cent by the State of Tennessee and 10 per cent by the counties through which the roadway passes. The preliminary estimate calls for $5,000,000, but this is only tentative, no survey having as yet been made.

A PROVINCE FOR SALE.

The rather startling headline, "An American Province on the Market," is found after investigation to refer to the possible sale of Labrador by Newfoundland, not to the highest bidder but to Canada only. Many outsiders were unaware that Newfoundland owned the bleak British-American province called Labrador, but the account states that it has held that territory almost uninterruptedly since the British conquest of Canada in 1763 and that during nearly all that time has been engaged in a dispute with Canada over the boundary line. When the British government gave to Newfoundland the coastline of captured French Canada the adjoining provinces of Quebec especially offered objection and in 1774 the London government was induced to turn Labrador over to Canada. But in 1869 it was returned to Newfoundland, and then in 1925, in response to a civil clamor, the territory was divided, Newfoundland retaining the coast section.

But neither claimant was satisfied and in 1927 the dispute was finally settled by awarding to Newfoundland all that section of Labrador which drained into the Atlantic, the rest going to Canada. Now, apparently, Newfoundland has found no great advantage in possession of her share and for a price—not yet fixed—is willing to permit Canada, chiefly as a matter of territorial pride, to extend its possessions to a bleak and inhospitable coast. Lively bargaining may be expected, and unless Newfoundland is in unusual need of money a settlement may be long pending.

A West Virginian named Fox was indicted, convicted and sentenced to six months for selling liquor, but according to the latest news the United States Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit has established not only that Fox was innocent but that he was "framed" with the complicity of an enforcement agent at that.

 SEVERE BURNS

I have spoken before about accompanying a railroad surgeon in his rounds after an accident in which 27 victims were removed to the hospital. Noting one of the victims chatting with his relatives I was of the opinion that his case was not serious and that he would likely recover, and questioned the surgeon as to his chances.

The surgeon shook his head and said, "That poor fellow hasn't a chance, there is too much of his body surface burned." Such proved to be the case.

How differently surgeons, physicians, and nurses feel about these serious burns, now that the tannic acid treatment has been known to save those formerly fatal cases. In previous days the doctor carried tubes of carbon oil (linseed oil and lime water) which was applied to simple burns. For more severe burns the continuous bath treatment was used which meant constant care with poor results often.

The tannic acid treatment is very simple. Tannic acid in powdered form is carried in the doctor's bag, and is now on the shelves in the first aid department of many factories or other industrial institutions.

Any oil or grease on the burned surface must be removed before the tannic acid is applied. Sterile gauze or gauze bandage is laid over the burned spot or spots and this is soaked with 2 1/2 per cent solution of the tannic acid.

Roughly, four teaspoonfuls of dry tannic acid to one glass of water makes a 2 1/2 per cent solution. The solution must be made fresh each time. Until such time as this tannic acid becomes a part of every factory and household equipment, it is well to remember that strongly brewed tea may take the place of tannic acid. This can be poured gently or sprayed on the burned surface. After the first application a film or coagulum begins to form and the severe pain disappears.

So don't wait to go any distance to secure tannic acid if you have tea available. Remember that it should be real strong.

The treatment prevents shock, prevents poisoning, and lessens greatly the amount of scar tissue.

It was the shock and poisoning that proved fatal in badly burned patients.

Truly this has been a great discovery for mankind, preventing suffering and saving many lives.

 TROUBLED CONSCIENCES

entered with remarkable good humor into the conspiracy my mother had designed. He never knew what it was all about. He had an irresistible impulse to do whatever my mother asked him.

The climax of her plot was the black bag—a touch of genius, that its triumph was the suggestion that he should go the following morning and look up Laxton at the Lord Nelson and ask to be shown over the excavations at Newplace.

We instructed him exactly in his part. We told him "art he had arrived from Holland Bay in a taxi on Tuesday night and spent Wednesday, Thursday and Friday with us, in bed with a very bad cold. On Friday night he had been called to London on business, and I had seen him off by the 3.40 train. He knew nothing of the tragedy of Pell and was ignorant of any connection between that and the visitor we desired to keep secret from Laxton."

"Somebody jumping his claim on the ruins, I suppose," said he. "But I don't want to know. The less I know the less likely to go wrong."

It was Sunday morning. He went down to the village about half-past 10 and found Laxton at the inn. Whether he puzzled that astute person was difficult to say. But he found him entertaining, even went to a service at Marling's church with him, and had a look at the diggings afterwards.

Meanwhile I sat at home in the garden, weighing the question whether I should go to see Veronica or leave her alone. I wanted very much to see her, but I feared that seeking her now might seem lack of faith.

My mother came out and sat beside me and looked with me across the estuary to Passage.

"I was just thinking I want to look up the Seabrookes," I said, "and I don't."

"Why not?"

"Because going might be like asking questions."

"Queer beings, men, Tom," said my mother. "Do you know, there's nothing more amusing to a woman than a man trying to let her down."

"Why? She'd like to give him a good shaking. You're very fond of Veronica, aren't you?"

"I think Miss Seabroke's—"

"Oh, Tom! Do look like a born idiot? If I didn't know you were head over ears in love with Veronica, I do you think I'd have—"

But now, I'm going over to Sandpoint to see Mrs. Seabroke. Will you escort me?"

"Mother! You're wonderful!" I panted. "You know we're sailing pretty close to the wind."

"I like excitement. Never worry a bone, Tom. And particularly don't try to tell me how close to the wind we are. I like Veronica, while you—well, that's quite enough. I'm going to get a hat."

It was quite true, I supposed. I did not understand how the feminine mind worked. Perhaps I appeared to Veronica in the same light. But she had said I was an understanding person.

At Sandpoint three feminine minds worked to such purpose that Mrs. Seabroke and my mother thought a tramp along the cliffs would do Veronica good, and Veronica agreed.

"Well," said Veronica when we had got going at a good four miles an hour, "how's the poor foot?"

"I've got the bandage off, and I don't limp so's you'd notice it, do I?"

"Enormous list," said I. "That skipper with his 'Parlous, madame, rous avez'—this that and the other thing."

"Immense," said I. We went quiet after that. For it was not an enormous task, and Veronica knew it and I knew it. We had conceived and done a daring and dangerous thing, and the consequences might be serious. We served a supper on September 18, in Hasbrouck Memorial Hall.

Mrs. Oscar Smith and daughter, Margarette spent Sunday afternoon with Miss Raitle Patridge at Newburgh.

Mrs. Daniel Reilly, who has been a patient at St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. George Collier spent Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Walsh.

Miss Marion Crispell of Guilford spent Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Smith.

Mrs. Wynant Courter is spending a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Ostrander at Balmville.

Miss Edith Van Idersdale, who is teaching at Goshen, spent the week-end in town.

stepped it out to silence for a half hour, side by side. She walked well, small as she was, being like and strong. In a little brown frock and hat which made her eyes seem bluer than ever, she came along beside me, a lovely picture of youth and health.

"How old are you?" she asked suddenly.

"Alas," I said, "I shall never see 25 again. And I feel 55. I suppose you'd thought of some figure between the two?"

"I hadn't thought anything about it—except that we've been behaving like two children. Playing about. Why don't you get in a rage, demand explanations? Carry on like anything?"

I weighed my answer. It became a question.

"Do you want me to demand explanations, Veronica?"

"I would give them," said Veronica.

"But you'd be better pleased if I asked for none."

She made no reply for some moments. Then she turned up her face to me and said:

"It would be more in—keeping with your character if you didn't."

That settled it.

"I'm quite content to go without explanations," said I. "But I ought to tell you that Professor Laxton—"

"Is a policeman in professor's clothing. Oh, yes, Mr. Grenofen, I know my Laxton all right. And he'd like to know me."

"That's what I'm afraid of, Veronica!" I cried. "I've an honest respect for his intelligence. He is not deluded by Cousin John. He's busy piecing things together. He's bound to come to our voyage of Friday night and try to place that in. And then?"

Veronica imitated her back-chat with the astonished lieutenant. I had to laugh.

"But, Miss Seabroke, you'll find Laxton a different proposition," said I.

"I wonder," she answered meditatively. "Well, whatever happens you'll remember a thin, you asked me and I answered that awful night out here. You said: 'Was it morally wrong to do what I wanted? And I said: 'No.'"

"Of course—I've had it in mind all the time," said I.

"And whatever happens it will still be true. And I'm not afraid of your professor, though I'm not a bit anxious to see him. And whatever happens, Tom—you've been splendid to me. Why do you do it?"

I longed to tell her exactly why, but it was not the sort of discussion to divert in that direction. I said:

"Fate threw you at me off the back of a horse—and here we are."

We left it at that. We got back to Sandpoint in good time for me to take my mother home for lunch. Veronica held out her cool, strong little hand to me as we parted and said, for me only, "Whatever happens, remember!"

The prophetic intonation in that came home to me later on. It was then very necessary to fortify myself with the assurance of Veronica's loyalty.

The veritable Cousin John stayed with us till Monday afternoon. He gave an amusing account of his colloquy with Laxton, which seemed to consist almost entirely of cross questions and crooked answers.

Laxton wanted to know what he thought of Devonshire and constantly returned to that subject, though Cousin John assured him that he had never been in Devonshire.

Laxton took him round the cloisters and pointed out what a perfect view of the excavations could be had from one of the ruined windows. Laxton was extraordinarily curious about his illness, his journey to London, his address in London, his habits, his business.

Whereas Cousin John insisted on making Laxton stick to Roman antiquities and express opinions on wild theories which he invented on the spur of the moment.

Cousin John chuckled over the thought of it all, hoped he'd been useful to my mother, ate the last of the raspberries in the garden, bought a little sketch from me and took himself off to London again in high good humor.

For the rest of that day there was respite.

The Tuesday brought trouble roaring round my head.

In the morning came the last man I expected to see at Woodcot—Marling.

WHY WE DO IT

Why We Daydream

By MEHRAN K. THOMSON, Ph.D.
 Author of "The Springs of Human Action."

Daydreaming is a private moving picture establishment in which each person is his own hero and spectator, the whole show. And like the radio it may be turned on or off at will.

The daydream gives wonderful scope for the imagination. Those who have a vivid imagination are more likely to live in the "cinema of their souls." It is so much easier to get what you want in your daydream than in the cold world. If you desire to be rich and good-looking and popular all you need to do is to turn the crank of your daydreaming machinery and you are all these things.

If you crave the love of some man or woman you may have that too. There is nothing skimpier about a daydream. You may do what you will. You may be anything. You may have everything.

In every daydream you are IT. There is always a plot in which you are the hero. You lick the champion, you win the hand of the fairy princess, you make a million dollars, you gain fame as an artist—anything you want. Is it any wonder that daydreaming is so popular?

You need not always be a conqueror. You may be a sufferer. You may be a type makes little difference, you feel that you are misunderstood and terribly abused—and who does at times?—you will probably picture yourself as the modern Job who triumphs over all obstacles, discouragements to the discomfort of your tormentors and the admiration of your friends. The child, who is punished by his mother may have daydream in which he pictures himself the hero of some terrible accident, with his mother stooping to him in tears, sobbing to hear "Oh, why did I punish my poor little lamb?"

The daydream is quite normal, it may prove most useful. You are likely to own castles on the earth, less you first build a few in the air. But there is a possibility of overdoing it. You might get the habit of taking it all out in dreams instead of action. Some are such chronic dreamers that the world of reality means nothing to them. They spend all their time daydreaming.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Becoming Frock for the Growing Girl

6555. Printed linen and organdy are here combined. This is also a good style for cotton prints, for pontee and light weight wools. Flowered chiffon is also suggested with plain chiffon or georgette for the tie trimming. The waist portions are long above the full straight skirt, which may be gathered or shirred.

The sleeve is the popular bishop model but may be made in short length. A tie trimming outlines the V neck, and is finished in a smart bow at the center. The dress is held at slight blousing by a narrow belt.
The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 8, 10, 12, and 14 years. To make the dress with long sleeves for a 14-year size will require 2 3/4 yards of 32-inch material. If made with short sleeves 2 1/2 yards will be required. For the trimming, belt and cuffs of contrasting material 3/4 yard 22 inches wide and cut crosswise is required. If the trimming is made of ribbon it will require 1 1/2 yards.

STOMACH TROUBLE?

"DIASTATIC DEFICIENCY" AND "TOO MUCH ACID" CAUSE 9 OUT OF EVERY 10 ATTACKS

"DIASTATIC DEFICIENCY" (failure to digest starches) causes more than one-half the cases of stomach trouble. Because of this deficiency, potatoes, breads, macaroni, rice, pastas, cereals and other starchy foods remain in a semi-solid condition and refuse to move on as they should. This stoppage causes indigestion, gas, fermentation, flatulency, belching, sick headache and other common troubles.

"TOO MUCH ACID" is the cause of almost all the remaining half of our stomach troubles. It is also the result of fermentation and excess digestive acids. ACIDINE, the new discovery, is a perfect antacid combined with "Japane," the most effective known starch digestant, one pound of which will digest more than 800 pounds of starchy foods.

ACIDINE is the FIRST COMPLETE REMEDY FOR STOMACH TROUBLE—an ANTI-ACID, STARCH DIGESTANT, MEAT DIGESTANT. At the same time it is safe and soothing to the most sensitive stomach. Slightly laxative but not habit-forming.

INDICATES BUSINESS GOOD FOR PAST THREE MONTHS

Washington, Sept. 9 (P)—Practically all the indicators of business activities are said by Secretary Lamont to have been at higher levels during June, July and August of this year than in the summer period of any other year of the nation's history.

"A number of the activities of industry and commerce during the three months were actually on a higher plane than during the earlier months of the year," the secretary asserted, "and others showed less decline than usual in the past."

Employment conditions and the wage payments in factories, he added, have been well sustained during the summer while life insurance sales have actually been larger.

KISMET TEMPLE BAND AND GLEE CLUB AT SAUGERTIES

Saugerties, Sept. 10.—The Kismet Temple units, New York State Shrine Council, of Brooklyn, N. Y., arrived in Saugerties West Shore railroad station at 9 a. m., from Syracuse, on Sunday on their special train of 12 cars. The three units, patrol, band and chanters, numbering 211 men, were entertained jointly by Ulster Lodge, No. 193, F. & A. M., and the Saugerties Chamber of Commerce. Fifty-four autos took the men through the Catskill mountains and then to the Ernest Williams bungalow colony. Later in the afternoon the entire number headed by the band marched to the Main street school auditorium, which could not hold all the persons that had come to see and hear them. The patrol gave excellent drill work under the direction of Captain A. G. Logan and the glee club under the direction of A. E. Nichols received much applause.

The band under the direction of Ernest Williams, who is a resident of this town, did splendid work and the auditorium rocked with applause from his neighbors of this place. The special train left Saugerties at 7 p. m. and many of the visitors remarked "We hope to be invited again to your village." The Kismet cutout was in Saugerties last year.

French Miss American Films.

Paris, Sept. 10 (P)—Disappearance of American films from French screens, Courrier Cinematographique said today, has caused a decrease of 50 per cent in the revenues of French movie houses during the past month as compared with the same period in 1928. The paper added that officials of the French Film Syndicate were being pressed by the exhibitors to resign because they had failed to reach an agreement with the American producers. Some movie houses in Paris, unable to procure good new drawing card pictures, have been reduced to reproductions of films shown in the past few years.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Sept. 10 (AP).—The stock market alternately blew hot and cold as opposing speculative forces struggled for control of the price movement. But the list generally was under pressure despite wild bullish demonstrations in a few high-priced specialties. Fears of a mid-month credit pinch and a renewal of federal reserve pressure to force a reduction in brokers' borrowings had a chilling effect on bullish enthusiasm.

The drop of nearly 430,000 tons in the United States Steel Corporation took Wall Street by surprise, as earlier estimates indicated a drop of less than 300,000 tons. But steel common received strong support.

The Ajax Rubber Company reported another large deficit in the first half of the year. The Marlin Rockwell Company which has been mentioned in merger rumors in connection with Timken Roller Bearing Company, declared an extra dividend of 10 cents, the stock rallying 4 points on the announcement.

All money renewed unchanged at 8 per cent advanced to 9 by early afternoon. Purchase of about $1,000,000 in gold in London for shipment to New York was announced by London dispatches. Recent rumors said federal reserve authorities were discouraging further importations at this time.

Time money and bankers' acceptance rates held firm. Heavy Federal income tax payments, due on the 15th, are likely to cause a temporary credit strain.

Some wide advances took place in a few issues which have what Wall Street now characterizes as "a scarcity value." J. I. Case ran up 20 points to 440. American Machine and Foundry 18 1/2 to 239 and American Type Foundries 12 to 180, all new high records.

Atlas Powder advanced 5 points to a new peak at 139 1/2, but Du Pont broke 9 points. Republic Steel, which is expected to show increased earnings through its new welding process, was run up more than 6 points to a new peak at 134 1/2.

Radio returned to the speculative spotlight with an early gain of 4 points. Standard Brands, Packard (Old) and Johns Manville, which led yesterday's late rally, all sold off sharply.

FARM POULTRYFLOCK HISTORY IS GUIDE IN CULLING*Always Better to Improve Production by Care.

"In culling poultry the history of the flock should be the first important consideration," say the extension specialists in poultry husbandry at the Ohio State university. "If the flock as a whole has been laying heavily throughout the entire year, culling should be comparatively easy, as the good birds will show evidence of high production, while the few poor birds will be outstanding, showing very definite evidences of low production or none."

"If the flock has laid indifferently throughout the year, or has suffered from parasites such as red mites, lice, or intestinal worms, or is improperly housed or cared for, the culling will be very difficult, for many of the birds that are really worth keeping will be questionable, due to their condition. Under such circumstances the first step should be to correct conditions, and allow the good birds to come back and show their value, which will cause the poor birds to be more easily recognized."

"It is always better to improve average production by better management rather than by culling, which decreases the number of birds and cuts down the possible earning power of the flock."

Get Rid of Parasites on Chickens in Flock

The hens have enough to bother with in the summer with the hot weather without having to fight lice and mites in addition. The flock owner can do a great deal to help the hens get rid of these pests.

There are various remedies on the market which can be used, or a drug known as sodium fluoride can be bought at the drug store and can be put on the hens, applying it on the back, head, throat, on the breast, around the vent, between each thigh and the breast and on each wing. This is a rather tedious process, although it will get all the lice.

Within the last year and a half, however, it has been found that painting Black Leaf 40 on the perches will rid a flock of lice. This is easy and effective.

Mites are a worse pest than lice, since these little bugs stay in the cracks and crevices around the nests, droppings boards and perches during the day and get on the birds at night, at which time they suck the hen's blood. These can best be fought by using a strong disinfectant on the nests, roosts and droppings boards.

If these pests—lice and mites—are allowed to remain on the birds, they will sap the chicken's vitality and will hinder egg production considerably.

Ducks and Geese Are Fed Pretty Much Alike

Ducks and geese are fed just about alike. They should be kept warm and dry and fed about four or five times per day. All young water fowl should have soft feeds, that is to say, wet mash mixed as follows: Three parts yellow corn meal, four parts bran, one part red dog or low-grade flour by weight. Add to this 10 per cent of high-grade meat scraps, 1 per cent of fine sand, and mix with water or milk so that it is quite moist but not sloppy. Feed this every two or three hours for two weeks.

Care for Chicks

Raising good chicks is about the most important thing on a poultry farm. That to a large extent determines your profits. If you neglect the chicks by crowding them too closely, by letting the house become filthy and the soil in bad shape, you may produce weak chicks that do not live well and lay well. It is comparatively easy to grow good chicks if you are willing to do the necessary work of properly caring for the chicks.

Turkeys on Upgrade

Turkey raising is on the upgrade, now that the blackhead bugaboo has been done away with. And the turkey growers are getting the marketing system down to a fine point, too. Six turkey marketing associations have just been formed in various parts of Colorado, and the next thing will be a statewide pool. Profits received by members of turkey marketing pools in the West last year were very pleasing—that's why new pools are being formed to handle this year's crop.

Scratching Shed

In some of the warmer sections of the country, fowls will prefer to spend their nights in the trees and on outdoor roosts but severe storms, driving snows or heavy rains will in most instances, send them into the houses. It is the storm more than the cold that the hen objects to, and for this reason, if no other, a scratching shed where the fowls are sheltered from the wind, should be provided where the layers can slug and keep busy during the entire day.

You know that a little thought and a little kindness are often worth more than a great deal of money. This charity of thought is not merely to be exercised toward the poor; it is to be exercised toward all men.—John Ruskin.

Education in America

Compulsory education in the United States occurred first in Massachusetts. As far back as 1642 the selectmen were enjoined to compel parents to teach their children themselves or to procure teaching for them. The following list shows the dates at which the several states enacted compulsory education legislation: Massachusetts, 1852; District of Columbia, 1864; Vermont, 1867; New Hampshire, 1870; Washington, 1871; Connecticut, New Mexico, 1872; Nevada, 1873; New York, Kansas, California, 1874; Maine, New Jersey, 1875; Wyoming, 1876; Ohio, 1877; Wisconsin, 1878; Rhode Island, Illinois, the Dakotas, Montana, 1883; Minnesota, Nebraska, Idaho, Colorado, Oregon, Utah, 1885-1890; by 1906 almost all states.

BOARDS OF TAX APPEAL FOR SMALL TAXPAYERS.

Saratoga Lake, N. Y., Sept. 10 (AP).—Creation of Boards of Tax Appeal in various parts of the state to hear and act upon valuation and inequality complaints of small taxpayers was proposed today to the National Tax Association in conference here by Charles J. Tobin, of Albany, former president of the New York State Tax Association.

He suggested that the Boards be set up in the Judicial Districts outside New York city or by creating a separate bureau in the State Tax Department. He also proposed that local assessors be appointed instead of elected and that the township be established as the tax unit for all local assessment purposes.

An increase of the membership of the State Tax Commission from three to five, according to Tobin, would relieve the present commission of a top-heavy load. In the event of such an increase, he said, business, public utilities or financial interests might obtain direct representation on the commission.

Tagging Major League Bases

By HERBERT W. BARKER,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Joe McCarthy's Chicago Cubs are today in quest of eight more victories, all they needed to clinch the 1929 National League pennant. Thirteen games ahead of the second place Pittsburgh Pirates and with only 19 more contests to play, the Cubs were hoping to clinch the pennant within the next two weeks or less.

As the situation stood today the Cubs, by winning eight of their remaining games, would wind up with a record of 98 victories and 54 defeats. Pittsburgh, by winning all of its 21 remaining games would finish with 55 victories and 56 defeats, the difference being that two Chicago games with St. Louis have been washed permanently off the schedule. Every Pittsburgh defeat from now on, of course, will make the Cubs' already easy task that much easier.

The two leaders each chalked up victories yesterday, the Cubs nosing out Boston, 4 to 3, and Pittsburgh outgunning Brooklyn, 9 to 7. Percy Lee Jones appeared to have the Cubs stopped, 2-0, until the seventh when Hack Wilson hit his fifth homer with one on to tie the score. Then after the Braves had scored one in the ninth, Stephenson's homer, Olson's single and Taylor's double gave the Cubs two runs and the game. Jones gave only eight hits in 11 for the Braves off Charlie Root. Wilson's homer put him in a tie with Chuck Klein of Philadelphia for the league lead.

A four-run rally in the seventh gave the Pirates their hard fought triumph over Brooklyn. Rosoff, a recruit from Wichita, drove in the tying run in the seventh and later scored a run that added to the Pirates' advantage. Ervin Brame went the rounds for Pittsburgh although he was touched for 14 hits.

The New York Giants took two from Cincinnati, 6 to 4 and 10 to 4 in five innings. The Giants concentrated their attack on Adolph Luque in the second inning of the first game for four runs and then added two more off Ken Ash in the ninth. Hubbell held the Reds in check most of the way. McGraw's hopefuls slugged Kelp and Rixey for 12 hits in the abbreviated nightcap and Fitzsimmons had little trouble coasting in to victory.

The Phils bunched hits to down St. Louis, 9 to 3. Sweetland had only one bad inning, the second, when the Cards scored all their runs.

Danny MacFayden outpitched Jack Ogden and the Boston Red Sox beat the St. Louis Browns, 6-2. The game was scheduled as the first part of a double-header but rain forced postponement of the second game. MacFayden gave up only seven hits and was never in danger after the Sox gave him a 3-2 lead in the sixth.

In the only other American League game of the day, young Ed Walsh gave Washington only six hits and Chicago beat the Senators, 6-4. A three-run rally in the seventh sent Ed Sam Jones to the showers.

RUMOR OF TRADES IN MAJOR LEAGUES

Dissatisfaction Among Managers the Chief Cause.

(By E. ALLEN LUTE.)

Coming on the heels of the fast approaching world series are rumors and "hot stove league" trades for the coming winter. While some are not authentic and likely, there seems to be some in the making. Several teams will undoubtedly have new managers and not a few have already indicated they wish to make a change. Over in Brooklyn Dazzy Vance is sure to go and a new manager will also have charge next spring. Robinson has already substantiated these reports, desiring to devote all his time to the presidency of the club. Every man on the team is for trade, provided they can get suitable material in return. Pittsburgh is not satisfied with Sholly at first, and Paul Waner is rumored to find other quarters. Bush has his troubles more than ever this year and the fans of Pittsburgh have "ridden" him hard for his benching of Waner. Their infield is weak on a reliable substitute and shortstop has been a troublesome spot all summer. Adams poor showing as a relief infielder has aggravated the case.

Cincinnati may let their star second baseman go, also a new manager seems pertinent to the welfare of the club. The flare-up with the Cubs did not help matters any for Hendricks. St. Louis may make the biggest change in the National league, noted for big "deals." Frisch wants to go elsewhere and may be satisfied. A third baseman is badly needed and the outfield has not come up to expectations.

Philadelphia and Boston may be satisfied to "stand pat" on the present outlay, trusting to the new results they have gathered for next year. New York is due for a shakeup, as McGraw's team has not had the "punch" this year as formerly. A new outfielder and second baseman would help the Giants in the next flag race. One "wild" rumor has it that McGraw has seen his last in New York and will manage the White Sox the coming year. Miracles happen ever so often. The Cubs, going as they have, may stand pat.

In the American League Philadelphia probably will make no change. New York, a loser this year, looks as good trading material, with rumors of "the mighty Babe" going to the White Sox, a team ranking with the Boston Americans; the poorest team ever to represent the "Windy" city in the pennant fight since the baseball scandal years ago. Manager Blackburne, it is rumored, has already been replaced, to take effect at the close of the season. Several other changes are sure to follow in an attempt to compete with the Cubs for popularity which they used to monopolize on. Boston is still a disappointment with no prospects to better themselves for the coming year. St. Louis will change manager for next season, but may not change much in playing talent. Cleveland is progressing satisfactory and Detroit is fair. A good shortstop for the Tigers would work wonders for Bucky Harris and may get in on a three-cornered deal.

Washington has been handicapped all summer by misfortunes to Manager Johnson, while Clark Griffith, the president, has been "laid up." With better luck they would have finished higher up in the lead standing, or at least made a better fight with their manager on the playing field.

On present conditions six teams in the American league and four teams in the National league need radical changes if they ever expect to place themselves with their respective leaders in the drive for the pennants.

Sport Champions Hit the Skids; Challengers Stage Colossal Coup

Stopping the champs, the challengers' battle cry, produced staggering losses among the sports monarchs this year. The under-dogs are rich with trophies, having bagged the crowns of Bobby Jones, the Yankees, Johnny Farrell, Dazzy Vance, the California crew and others.

By JAY VESSELS,
Sports Editor.
(Associated Press Feature Service.)

New York (AP).—The boys usually wait until around the Christmas holidays to bang out a resume about the awful toll among the champions in the preceding 12 months.

But the mighty fell so early and so hard this season that a premature resume perhaps will be pardoned.

So many have fallen that about the only major sports champions who still have to walk the tight wire are Glenna Collett, queen of women golfers, and a few synthetic boxing barons.

Starting with the collapse of the New York Rangers, kings of 1928 hockey, the champion-breaking plague reached greatest momentum during the summer when it wiped out such 1928 greats as the Yankees, the California crew and Johnny Farrell. And then the mighty Bobby Jones was toppled.

These were the major casualties, but among the tangled, title strewn wreckage are found Strangler Lewis, heavyweight wrestling czar; Reigh Count, 1928 Kentucky Derby winner; Joe Dundee, welterweight champion; Dazzy Vance, strike out wizard and premier 1928 pitcher and Goose Goslin, American League batting champion last year.

Most of the big shots cracked so quickly that the finish wasn't even close.

The Rangers never seriously threatened in the hockey race.

California, behind from the start at Poughkeepsie, sank with a mile to go.

The Yankees were stopped almost before they got started.

Johnny Farrell scarcely had time to warm up at Winged Foot before his national open crown flitted away.

Goose Goslin never was a threat in the American League batting race.

And Bobby Jones! The type "covering" his first round downfall in the national amateur is still hot.

What a year for champions! The challengers simply turned things upside down. That's all. And that's plenty.

Sport Slants

By Alan J. Gould,
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

Something should be said for the Cleveland Indians, whose fine play since the middle of the American League season, involving a leap to third place, is one of the big surprises of the year. Billy Evans and Roger Peckinpaugh have put together a fine young club, the best Cleveland has had since Tris Speaker led the world's champions of 1920.

In Earl Averill, the Indians picked up the best outfield recruit of the season and in Wes Ferrell one of the rarest pitching finds in many a moon. The comeback of Lew Fonseca at first base, rounding out a capable infield with Joey Sewell moving over to third, is another big factor in sending the redskins along the warpath. They should make a real fight for the pennant in 1930.

The Olympic boxing class of 1924 so far has produced two world's champions, an unusual record and a reflection of no little credit upon the stocky shoulders of Spike Webb, the Naval Academy's coach, who helped to develop them.

The first was Fidel Labarba, winner of the Olympic flyweight crown and later the world's championship in this division, although he has now outgrown it. The latest to climb the heights is Jackie Fields, featherweight winner in the Olympics but now welterweight champion of the world as a result of his recent victory over Joe Dundee at Detroit.

Otto Von Forst, the hard-hitting Norwegian heavyweight, was also an Olympic titleholder in 1924.

The Big Four of Pacific coast football figure this fall in the heaviest slate of intercollegiate combat ever arranged for them. Southern California plays Notre Dame at Chicago and Carnegie Tech at Los Angeles. California plays Pennsylvania at Philadelphia. U. of Washington journeys to Chicago to meet Stagg's Maroons. Stanford will entertain the Army at Palo Alto.

In addition, Oregon plays Hawaii University at Portland before going to Florida. Oregon State goes to Detroit late in November.

There will be no fault to find along the Big Six if the native sons do as well this season as Stanford, Oregon State and Southern California did last year in three of the principal East-West engagements.

Who was the greatest southpaw of all time?

I put this question recently to Connie Mack, who has handled four of the greatest in Rube Waddell, Eddie Plank, Robert Moses Grove and Rube Walberg. Without taking any positive stand in so personal a debate, Connie nevertheless seems to favor Waddell.

"The Rube, when he was right, was a wonder," said Connie. "He had everything. He was big, strong and had a world of speed. Plank, with his baffling cross-fire, was one of the

BOXING BOUTS TONIGHT AT WOODCLIFF PARK

Billy Roche, Woodcliff Park boxing promoter, will uncork a real sizzling fight program tonight and expects that a record crowd will pack the big stadium to see his spicy offerings.

Salvatore Ruggirello, Italian heavyweight champion, tussles with Jack Shaw, hard hitting Jersey boy, in the feature bout, which is supported by a list of scraps that promise plenty of fast milling.

Two supporting bouts that should interest local fans are the Frankie Konchins-Sammy Rombolo scramble and the set-to between Ralph Picencello, Golden Glove heavyweight winner, and Gus Rodenberg.

Woodcliff Park officials have arranged for their boat to make special trips to the various cities to pick up the fight crowd and return them immediately after the show. Many will attend according to the advance sale of tickets.

Canada's Status

Canada is one of several self-governing countries that make up the British empire, or as it is often called, the British commonwealth of nations. Their allegiance is to that commonwealth and to its ruler, and not to England, Scotland or Wales. The prime minister is the actual head of the government, but the governor-general appointed by the king is the nominal head.

Many Have Speech Defects

It is estimated that at least 1,000,000 persons in the United States have some form of speech disorder, and of these approximately 800,000 are school children who stammer or stutter.

No Boxing Bouts Here This Week

Fans who patronize the boxing bouts at the Kingston Fair Grounds will not be able to indulge in their weekly pastime Friday because Promoter Bill Singer has changed the date of the next card to Thursday, September 19, when Nick Zinna and Harry Matinsky will meet in the feature attraction for the third time this season.

The ring argument between Zinna and Matinsky was scheduled to be settled this Friday, but as Zinna is in Boston and his signature cannot be procured on a contract, the fight had to be postponed. As the Zinna-Matinsky go is being looked forward to by practically every fan in this vicinity, Bill Singer thought it best to call off all activities until the boys can meet.

Thursday, September 19, should be a big night at the Fair Grounds with the feature go supported by a card containing several local boys. Joe Vosdick, who has not been very active around these parts of late, will meet Frankie Goosby in one of the bouts. The flashy Johnny Blaine also may go on. A tough opponent is being sought for Joe Carpio and a match between Joe Werner and a New York boy soon will be made.

HE SUFFERED FOR TEN YEARS

Then ALL-BRAN Brought Relief in 2 Months—Doctor Recommended It

Constipation is dreaded not only for its own insidious self, but because of the many serious conditions and diseases it causes. Mr. Lind was a sufferer—but read how he found relief.

"For the past 10 years I have suffered from constipation. At times I have been unable to work. I have tried many remedies, cathartics, etc., but to no avail.

"Two months ago my grocer called my attention to Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I began taking it regularly. Immediately the pain and annoyance from the piles was relieved. I found that it requires very little ALL-BRAN to give nature a fair chance to effect a cure."—WALTER J. LIND, R. 2, Box 157, Appleton, Wis.

Don't neglect constipation. At any time its poisons may take terrible toll from your health and well-being. Protect yourself. Eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN regularly—two tablespoonfuls daily, or in chronic cases, with every meal. ALL-BRAN brings sure, natural relief. It is what doctors call a bulk food. It sweeps the intestine clean and stimulates normal action.

Ready-to-eat with milk or cream. Also try the recipes on the package. Results guaranteed. Doctors recommend it because it is 100% bran. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Served in hotels, restaurants, and dining cars. Sold by all grocers.

PAINTED TOTEMS ROUSE INDIANS

Preservation of Alaskan Relics Fails to Get Tribal Approval.

Ketchikan, Alaska.—Alaska Indians are keeping some distance from their totem poles—family crests of northwest tribes—because the poles and carved memorials have been painted with creosote and new colors by a government preservation outfit. All the important Alaska totems are to be rehabilitated and painted.

The plan for saving from decay and theft the famous carved memorials originated with the Smithsonian Institution, and H. W. Kreiger, national museum ethnology curator, arrived here last fall to organize the work. Holding gear for erecting fallen poles and painting crews were established at Kasaan, largest totem village.

Carving Lost Art.

This summer preservation work is being conducted at several other native settlements. The carving of totem poles from solid logs of white cedar is a lost art, as the northwest Indians have forgotten the knack of intricate chiseling with the advent of white men. None has been carved for a generation.

Alaska has been steadily losing her totem poles by sale, theft and decay. Unless they can be successfully preserved and protected summer tourists of the future will not be able to stand and wonder at these quaint spectacles rising skyward and telling, with carved animal heads and inscriptions from forgotten Indian languages, folk lore stories of northland tribes.

Largest Collection.

At the abandoned village called Kasaan about 150 totems are standing. This collection is declared the largest in the north. The village was deserted years ago when natives moved to Nak Kasaan, where work in canneries was available.

Kasaan's totems are of many sizes and descriptions. Some are of imposing proportions with the four distinct emblems of the bear, crow, toad and eagle represented. The big poles are carved from pinnacle to base with gorgeous sign language. The totems are cut on cedar, which is slow in perishing.

The colored creosote paint being used will resist climatic ravages, keep off woodpeckers and boring beetles. Theft of totems is imperiled by their size and no shipping concern will accept them.

Reading and Writing

Now Taught in Prison

Springfield, Ill.—Reading and writing have been added to the list of duties for inmates of Illinois state prisons. Before any inmate can be "graduated" from a prison in the state, he must have an elementary knowledge of reading and writing, according to an announcement by Rodney Brandon, state director of public welfare.

Wardens will determine who needs such instruction and will prescribe an eight-hour daily program for those who cannot read or write, Brandon said.

This program will not require a man to remain in prison longer than his term, Brandon said, but he believes anyone can learn to read and write in the space of a few months.

Some of the better educated prisoners will assist in the work by acting as instructors in elementary classes, under Brandon's plan.

'Aged Man Gets Wish to

Sleep and Never Waken

Evansville, Ind.—"I want to sleep and never waken," William H. Blackman, ninety-four years old, told his daughter, Mrs. William B. Wheaton, and shortly afterwards closed his eyes and realized his wish. He was the last surviving member of a band of English settlers who settled here in the early fifties. On the same ship came Elizabeth Setton, whom he later married.

High Voltage Kills

Pittsburgh, Pa.—J. Biermer, twenty-five, radio operator at station KDKA, was killed when he came in contact with a high voltage wire at the broadcasting plant. Biermer died immediately, 5,000 volts passing through his body.

Fruit Fly Traced

by Electric Ear

New York.—How research engineers of the Bell telephone laboratories devised a means of detecting the dread fruit fly in Florida fruit samples was revealed recently by G. D. Blatter of the Bell laboratories.

An electric stethoscope, similar to a radio and telephone receiver in that it is able to amplify almost imperceptible sound waves, was placed on top of the fruit samples at frequent intervals.

When noises were heard within the fruit, the sample was cut open and in each instance was found to contain fruit fly larvae.

SAUGERTIES

Saugerties, Sept. 10.—St. Mary's parochial school of this village opened Monday morning after the summer vacation. The number of students registered is 80 girls and 88 boys and the Sister Superior in charge is Sister Josita Rosain.

An excursion has been planned by the T. B. Cornwalli Hose Company, to be held Sunday, September 15. The steamer Ida will leave the Saugerties dock at 1 p. m. for Woodcliff Park, Poughkeepsie, and during the sail there will be music and dancing on board. Tickets $1, children half fare.

Ivory Ribbamen of West Bridge street has entered the Cortland Physical Training School for a four-year course.

Mrs. Margaret Moorehead of Ripley street received bruises and cuts about the forehead on Saturday evening, being struck by a Ford coupe owned by Charles Winter of Kingston and being driven, it is said, by Jay Molyneux of the same place. Mrs. Moorehead was struck while crossing the street and a milk bottle which she was carrying gave her severe cuts. Dr. Krom removed her to the Beers Sanitarium for further treatment.

Eugene F. Thornton has returned from a trip to Rochester, where he spent the past few days.

The letter was received by the fire chief of this place from Arthur W. Howland, supervisor engineer of the National Board of Underwriters, who has been stationed at Kingston for some time, completing similar work in that city. The village of Saugerties is giving this matter serious consideration and will eventually have the work done as it means that in case of a serious fire the fire companies of Catskill, Kingston and many other places could be of valuable aid to each other.

A large congregation filled the Reformed Church Sunday evening to hear again the world famous Gloria Trampeters give several musical numbers and also assist in the music of the church. The ladies are no strangers to the Saugerties folks, having played in that church for the third time and also residing but little distance from the village.

Ambassador, in Theory, Ranks Above Minister

An ambassador is head of an embassy and a minister is head of a legation. Under international law and usage an ambassador is the personal representative of the sovereign or head of a state and is accredited directly to the head or sovereign of another state. A minister is, under international law and usage, the representative of the government (as distinct from the head of the state) and is accredited to the government of another state. Theoretically an ambassador has the right to converse directly with the sovereign or the head of the state to which he is accredited, and likewise may correspond directly with the sovereign or head of his own country. A minister, on the other hand, in theory carries on his correspondence with the minister of foreign affairs of the state to which he is accredited, and similarly corresponds with his own government through the minister of foreign affairs of his own country. In practice the duties of an ambassador and a minister are the same. At a social and official function an ambassador, on account of his superior rank, takes precedence over a minister.

Blue Paint Unpopular With Deep-Sea Sailors

Seafarers in general are emphatic in their dislike of blue paint on a vessel. It is a deep-rooted belief with them that bad luck will follow the use of the color. Twenty-five years or so ago the Donna Briggs, a little three-masted coasting schooner, was a familiar caller at ports between Nova Scotia and Boston. The men of the sea and ships declared that whenever she dropped anchor a storm followed. The schooner's hull was blue. "I recall that a few years ago," said a Fulton Market fish dealer, "we engaged a Gloucester skipper to go down to a Maine port and bring back a schooner that had just been launched for us. When he found they had painted the hatches blue, he picked up his grip and started back for the railroad station."—New York Times.

Yellow Jackets Meet Tonight

Men who played on the Yellow Jacket football teams in past seasons will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. to decide whether the eleven will enter the field of competition again this year. Joe Hoffman, last year's captain and one of the most prominent athletes of Kingston, will preside at the session. One of the main features of tonight's meeting will be the choosing of a manager. George Brooks and Ray Craft, last year's handlers, who brought some real opposition here for the Yellow Jackets, will not take over the reins this season. It is said Bill Dwyer, successful manager of the team during its second season of activity, likely will be chosen to do the Yellow Jacket's business this year if he will accept the position. If the Yellow Jackets organize and play the same brand of ball that made the team famous over a period of three seasons there should be some real gridiron contests here. High calibre teams are now clamoring for matches with the local boys, whose fame has spread as far west as Ohio. Letters requesting early bookings with the Yellow Jackets are now on file. Although those who form the nucleus of the Yellow Jacket outfit have not publicly invited all interested in local football to tonight's meeting, it is likely that the boys will welcome anyone who is a real booster of the team to the meeting.

Made Store a Shrine
The secret of a little general store in an English village, shuttered and closed for forty years, was disclosed on the death of its owner. Flaxius Josephus Wilkinson had left the store absolutely unaltered since the death of his father. Calendars and papers of forty years before were found, and on the counter was a pair of old-fashioned scales. There was also a yardstick that had evidently been used for measuring cloth, and the medicine bottles, tea canisters and jars were as the old man had left them—even the jacket of the old shopkeeper still hung on the wall. Few persons knew of this remarkable instance of a son's devotion to his father's memory. The son had been left comfortably well off, but he carefully dusted and swept the little store and lived for many years in the house adjoining it.
